general manager Danny Ainge to revive a franchise accustomed to hanging banners from the rafters, put the Lakers on the brink of a summer vacation.

But the Celtics' big trio got plenty of help as James Posey scored 18 points and Eddie House came off the bench to score 11, including a jumper with 4:07 left that gave Boston its first lead and one it would never give up.

The Celtics can reclaim their place atop pro basketball with a win in Game 5 on Sunday night in Los Angeles.

No team has ever recovered

The Celtics, who scored only 14 points in the first quarter, finally caught the Lakers at 73-all on LeBron James' jumper in the lane with 9:05 remaining, tying the score for the first time since it was 2-2 in the first minute.

At that point, the Lakers looked lost, confused, you name it. And when House hit an 18-foot jumper with 4:07 remaining, the Celtics had their first lead, 84-83. Boston's bench erupted, Lakers fans gasped and it was just a matter of time before they were heading out of Staples Center wondering what went wrong.

get looked at. Our league is having a pro combine.

"We have five home games on our schedule, and I want people to come out and see who we are," he added. "Once you're out of high school, if you don't go to college you can come here and play and still get looked at."

Washington thinks the Wardogs have plenty of strengths.

"We've got size, speed, everything we need," he said. "I love this. I still coach at the middle school, but I've coached at every level of ball, and I'm ready for this. I'm excited.

"This is good for Frankfort," Washington added. "It's something different, and it's something to do in the summer other than baseball."

>For those who plan to attend Saturday's game, Cowan Park is located off Lebanon Road in Danville. Admission will be $5 at the gate. Seating is limited, so spectators are encouraged to bring chairs.
